Late President's Cousin on "Lark"

Isabel Bennet and Sarah Cohen

Isabel, 18 years of age, and cousin of the late President Harding, today gathered with Sarah, 17, wanted to see the world and left their homes in New York, causing no end of excitement until they were found in Norfolk, Va., several days later. They were traveling and weary and said they would be glad to return home.

"SOAKING RICH" OPPOSED

Representative Wood Says Republican Theory Will Cut Taxes For All, Regardless of Wealth

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 20.—The theory of the Republican party in tax reduction, Chairman Wood of the Republican National Congressional Committee, declared in an address here tonight, is that each citizen, regardless of his wealth, should be relieved of some of the burden.

"The rich have been a favorite pastime of political charlatans since the dawn of history," Representative Wood added. "The only tangible thing of this policy has been to hurt the poor."

He pointed to the French Revolution and Russian Bolshevism as examples of the result of such a policy. Declaring that during the French Revolution taxes were levied to "soak the rich," he said the result was that the wealthy left the country and assisted in the upbuilding of other nations, including the United States.

The result of attempting to "soak the rich" in Russia, he added, has been the impoverishment of the peasantry. "This is the logical and inevitable result of the fiscal policies which find advocacy in this country in the persons of such Democratic spokesmen as Senator Reed and Representative Oldfield," he said.

The Republican party has held that heavy taxes upon the man of wealth and upon corporations strangle business and slow down the wheels of industry, all of which react directly to the injury of the wage earner, the agricultural producer and the small business man.

Furthermore, it has been proved beyond a doubt that the heavier the tax level on wealth, the more wealth endeavors to escape all taxes by investing in tax-exempt securities. As a result of high surtax, men of wealth have been investing in tax-exempt securities to the amount of over $1,000,000,000 a year until today there is outstanding over $30,000,000,000 in tax-exempt securities.

GOVERNMENT STANDS TO LOSE $20,000,000

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The government will lose between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 through the retroactive cut in inheritance taxes voted by the House Ways and Means Committee, it was estimated by Chairman Green, who opposed the slash. The committee voted to nullify the increased inheritance tax rates provided in the 1924 Revenue Act by making the lower rates in the 1921 law effective on all inheritances up to the time of enactment of the bill the committee is preparing, which reduced this schedule to a 20 per cent maximum.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) Nov. 20.—John W. O'Leary, Chicago banker and president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, today advocated putting the present national tax structure, which he said bears the earmarks of the war, on a peacetime basis. He urged before the Springfield Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club.

State Maintenance of 1711 Miles Provided

Procedure Under Act of Last Legislature

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
SACRAMENTO, Nov. 20.—Steps were taken today by the State Highway Commission for taking over maintenance on January 1, in consequence of an act of the last Legislature, 1711 miles of county highway located on State highway routes in forty-three counties of California.

Boards of supervisors in each county where maintenance is to be undertaken are being furnished a description of the roads to be taken over by the State, and this list of routes is accompanied by a resolution, which the commission asks the supervisors to adopt.

The resolution approves the selection of the routes by the Highway Commission and pledges the county to resume control of such county roads as may not be included when the State highway is finally laid out and constructed.

Supervisors are informed by the commission that the State proposes to discontinue maintenance of county roads upon the final location and completion of the State highway. Constructed State highways which are already under State maintenance and county roads where construction is under way or contemplated for the immediate future are not included in the list.

SOVIET DECREES TRADE REFORM

Economy Declared to be Aim in Readjustment Move

Merger Affects Foreign and Internal Departments

Lenin Lieutenant Selected as New Commissar

(BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
MOSCOW, Nov. 20.—A decree of the central executive committee of the soviet union was published yesterday, merging the foreign trade monopoly department and the commissariat of internal trade into the one commissariat of foreign and internal trades.

The measure will go into effect immediately. It is understood that considerable trade minister Schennikoff has been chosen.

A second decree of the central executive committee appoints M. Tsurupa, Lenin's chief lieutenant in the commissariat of foreign and internal trades, as commissar of the new trade commissariat with Foreign Trade Minister Kravskiy and Internal Trade Minister Schennikoff as assistants.

This reform was foreboded in previous press dispatches, and may be regarded as the most important change in soviet economic administration since the introduction of the new economic policy in 1921.

There be any doubt on the subject, authoritative editorials in Izvestia and Economic Life emphasize a reform of governmental readjustment for the sake of economy to prevent duplication and to increase the flexibility of the State machinery, but as a fundamental reorganization of the entire commercial system of the soviet union in order to cope with the problems of Russia's economic restoration.

The immediate cause of the reform, as both newspapers point out, is the "disorderliness" as they put it mildly, that occurred recently in regard to the harvest.

Izvestia gives a graphic picture of the confusion in the purchase of grain for export at prices above the world market, the chartering of vessels at ports where grain was not yet collected, the purchase for export of unsuitable qualities of grain, and the raising of prices by unnecessary competition between the different state departments.

From the viewpoint of the internal market even greater confusion was caused by the absence in rural areas of the required quantities of manufactured goods, of which a large part this year has been imported from abroad.

PREScription: TICKLE THE BABY

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS)
LONDON, Nov. 20.—If you would have strong, healthy children, tickle them when they are babies and make them laugh. This is the advice of Sir Harry R. Bruce-Power, a specialist in children's diseases, who is consulting physician to the American Red Cross in London. The advice was given before the members of the National Society of Day Nurseries. The eminent physician declared that most of the cherished traditions of the nursery not only are fallacious, but prejudicial to youngsters. "It is a good thing to tickle babies," said Sir Harry. "It makes them laugh, and thus they expand their lungs and breathe fresh air."

TREE PLANTING CAMPAIGN BENMAR HILLS - IN BURBANK

Tune in on KHJ Tonite from 8 to 10:30 P.M.

The American Reforestation Association, in conjunction with The Frank Meline Company, have engaged in an unusual procedure that has as its objective the doing of a great good in the lives of the Children of Los Angeles.

5000 Trees are to be planted in Benmar Hills by children. If the children of our generation are to love their homes and protect their country—they must be taught from childhood to love and protect our National Treasures—TREES.

"Train up the child in the way he should go; And when he is old he will not depart from it."

This proverb is just as true today as it was in Biblical times. Gene Stratton Porter, in a recent magazine article, stated: "If we want our nation to be the power among other nations to which our courage, achievement, wealth and intelligence entitles us, we must get back closer to the old standards of home life, since the home is the foundation stone upon which our nation must stand or fall."

Tree planting brings health, wealth, profit, honor and comfort not only to homes, but communities. There is something for each of us to do. The responsibility is ours. Our duty is measured by our capacity and every far-sighted man and woman should give this Tree Planting Campaign their active support. No financial assistance is needed. Tune in tonight on KHJ and listen to an inspiring program from 8 to 10:30 P.M.

Use it today!

TRAJANS FAVORITES TO DEFEAT IOWA TODAY

Scanning the Grid Horizon
THUNDERING HERD MEETS HAWKEYES IN COLISEUM
Expect 70,000 Fans to View First Intersectional Tilt in West in 1925 Grid Season
BY BRAVEN DYER
With indications pointing to a Trojan victory, the University of Iowa and U.S.C. football teams tangle in the Coliseum this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Hawkeyes eleven blew into the city yesterday afternoon and faced a crowd of more than 2000 greeters at the Central Station. It is expected that close to 70,000 fans will witness today's grid battle, the attendance being cut down somewhat by Iowa's defeat at the hands of Minnesota and the counter-attraction of the California-Stanford game in the north.
Coach Burt Ingwersen rushed his charges to the Coliseum yesterday afternoon and put them through an hour's work-out. We were privileged to give the Hawkeyes the once-over, and although we saw nothing startling, there was every indication that the Trojans are in for an afternoon's fight today. U.S.C. should win, however, the margin of victory being anywhere from one to four touchdowns, according to the dope along the betting rails.
TRAJANS OUTWEIGHED
The victors will outweigh the Trojans both in the line and backfield. Ingwersen's athletes are not in the best of shape, according to him, and this, plus their weight, will tend to cut down their speed. It was positively sultry in the Coliseum yesterday at 4:15 o'clock, and unless the weather gets much cooler before starting time today, the change from Iowa climate isn't going to speed the Hawkeyes up any. WASHINGTON HUSKIES WILL NOT PLAY EAST-WEST GAME
(BY A. F. MONT WASH)
SEATTLE, Nov. 20.—The opinion that the University of Washington will not be a participant in an East-West football game in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal., which on New Year's Day is to feature a rose tournament, was expressed today by Darwin McLean, graduate manager at Washington. McLean stated that Washington would probably request the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Conference, which is handling the game for the Pasadena Tournament of Roses, not to ask the Huskies to play.
Intimations of unwillingness to represent the East-West game in the Rose Bowl have come from Princeton, Dartmouth, and Colgate Universities, and the University of Pennsylvania.
Selection of a team in each section to be invited for the game is to be made by the conference next week at a mail vote.
McLean explained that Washington had played in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day before last, when a 14 to 0 score was scored with the United States Naval Academy; that it was the desire to keep the team pointed toward next year rather than to anything after the season's end. He stated that the game here against the University of Oregon; that games this year with the University of California and Stanford, Jr. University had put Washington in an excellent financial condition, and that troubles with scholarship standing were feared if any extension of gridiron activities was sanctioned.

BEAR FACES CARD TODAY IN CLASSICAL BIG GAME
74,000 Fans Will Crowd Stanford Stadium to Watch Annual Grid Battle of Tradition
BY PAUL LOWRY
"Times" Staff Correspondent
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—All roads lead to Palo Alto, where tomorrow on the green rectangle of the Stanford Stadium the Golden Bears of California and the sons of the Stanford Red meet for the thirty-second time in football conflict. Over 74,000 lucky souls will see the battle and as many more would give a right eye for a ticket. The precious pastebords are rated at $15 to $25 apiece by the gentry of the scalping profession.
For the first time in six years Stanford enters the big game as a move that had to be made because Dixon has not turned in a really outstanding game this year.
However, we are inclined to believe that Andy had several very smart ideas in mind when he made the changes. Of course, when Dixon was sent to the sidelines Andy had to have a kicker. Perrin does everything else that Dixon does except to kick. Therefore Blawett, first string quarterback, out of the picture. But Blawett is the main reliance at kicking up the line, or he was in the Blawett technical. So Young, who is a better defen-

LA BARBA FINISHES FEE
World's Champion Stops Rival in First Round of Main Event at Hollywood Stadium
World's Champion Fidel La Barba made that money in his bout with Ray Fee at the Hollywood American Legion Stadium last night, getting a technical knockout over his opponent in less than one round of getting up and getting knocked down on the part of Fee.
Just about one-half minute after the bell rang to start the bout, Harry Lee, refereeing his first bout here since his disastrous decision at Vernon in the Palumbo-Hudkins fight a short time ago, was counting over the body of Fee, who arose in a webby state at the count of nine only to drop again after a few seconds for another count of nine. Fee continued to get up and try to make a fight for the bout, but he was badly outclassed and helpless before the attack of George Blake's protegee.
In the semi-wind-up Billy Hart lost the first round and was dropped to his knees in the fifth round by a right-hand punch but was so strong in the other rounds that he took the technical scalp. He gave Rurrell a trash-

WALK-OVER QUALITY 1874-1925
—the sign of shoe satisfaction—
Is Quality Worthy of the Price
YES—ALWAYS. No one wants cheap shoes any more than he wants cheap meat. People spend two-thirds of their lives in shoes. Shoes support the body. Hosiery and gloves merely decorate the body. Shoes are a foundation.
Did you ever hear of a "corrective" hat? An "orthopedic" necktie? A "common sense" glove? No—and the reason is obvious.
Cheap shoes may look like WALK-OVERS in the store window. Two railroad tracks look alike, but one will carry you further than another. WALK-OVER shoes will carry you further than cheap shoes.
WALK-OVER shoes fit. The care in design and construction that makes WALK-OVER shoes good shoes, is never secondary to outward appearance. After the test of months of wear, WALK-OVERS prove their "worthwhileness."
One who buys a cheap article feels good when he is buying it, and is disgusted every time he wears it. One who buys a good article feels better every time he uses it, for the Quality remains long after price is forgotten.

ART GEM IN RUBBISH OF CATHEDRAL

Discovery of Canvases by Pease Clears Mystery After 100 Years

(BY CAROL-SCOTT BURGESS)
BERLIN, Nov. 10.—A picture portraying the nativity, painted by Antoine Pease well on in the sixteenth century, was discovered under a pile of dust, plaster and other rubbish in the cathedral of Berlin's oldest church. This clears up a mystery nearly a century old, this valuable art work having been given up for lost. The discovery was made by Earl Walter, art scholar, who has spent years in searching museums, palaces and castles seeking this work of Pease, which was made at the order of Frederick the Great about 1770. Until a century ago it hung on the right side of the altar, but after the removal of the altarpiece, it disappeared without leaving a trace. The picture, which measures five by eight inches, shows Mary as a young girl in a blue dress with a white veil and a halo and her breast is bare. It is believed the picture was removed from the altar because this subject did not conform with the priest's conception of the mother of Christ. The glow from the infant's face and the crib lights up that of the mother, as well as Joseph's. The picture has been turned over to an art school for restoration.

Detectives today recovered three suitcases full of goods stolen in Seattle from places where Purdy had checked in.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.), Nov. 10.—Fort Sam Houston divided honors with Fort Bliss, Okla., for the largest number of re-enlistments during the month of October, according to a list of post standings received by the Eighth Corps Area recruiting office. With sixty-nine discharges during the month of October, Fort Bliss is credited with the re-enlistment of twenty-nine soldiers, while Fort Sam Houston followed closely with a total of twenty-four re-enlistments. Kelly Field also stood high with a score of re-enlistments. Forty-eight men were discharged at the post field during the period reported.

"LINCOLN" HIS MASTERPIECE

David Edstrom's Bust of Great President Nearing Completion After Years of Labor

Surrounded by marble and bronze busts of famous kings and statesmen, philosophers and saints, David Edstrom, internationally known sculptor, stood in his studio at 1353 Federal street, yesterday, putting the final touches upon the clay bust of a man who, in Edstrom's mind, ranks above all other men in those qualities which make for true glory. The bust is to be cast in plaster and then made in marble. The bust of Lincoln, which Mr. Edstrom has been four years in making and which he considers one of his masterpieces, will be cast in plaster and then made in marble. PERHAPS this is an old story. Anyhow, I never happened to hear it before.

Also I was thrilled to the point of high frenzy by seeing the hero and heroine of the tale.

THE HOLLYWOOD WIDOW

It seems that there was a widow living in Hollywood. She has much money—at least, enough—and a towering ambition.

By accident she discovered that the man who delivered the box at the back door was a Russian prince. This one happened to be the genuine article.

A PROPOSAL

Being a lady of direct methods, the widow rushed out and dragged him in for inquiry and investigation.

LOVE'S MEDITATIONS

The woman said he would like to have ten minutes in which to think it over. She told him to come into the front parlor and help himself to all the thoughts that he seemed to think would help him. And she, very considerately, left him in solitude while he thought.

HER HIGHNESS!

Except for one fact they would have been married that day. But she had an important errand to accomplish prior to the ceremony.

CONGRATULATIONS!

The desire to be a princess is just one of those subjects that are not debatable. Looking at it this way and that, I have come to the conclusion that the lady—perhaps also the Prince—be to be congratulated on her good judgment.

GRABBING THE PIE

The desire to be a princess is just one of those subjects that are not debatable. Looking at it this way and that, I have come to the conclusion that the lady—perhaps also the Prince—be to be congratulated on her good judgment.

CUPID REBAMS

In all probability it will be a happy marriage. There are no people more charming than the Russians of the old social caste.

ONLY FANCY THAT!

But there is another consideration that, to my mind, outweighs all this. Prince or no prince—consider the almost inestimable advantage of having an iceman around the house.

SANTA CLAUS NOT BELIEVED LOST

Alaskan Finds Trail of Overdue St. Nicholas North of Nome

Despite the fact that Santa Claus is long overdue at Nome, Alaska, on his way from icy Cape to Los Angeles, The Times does not place any credence in rumors being circulated that he has been lost. The Times correspondent at Nome wired yesterday afternoon, saying that an Alaskan with his dog team just arrived in Nome and told of seeing tracks of Santa Claus's sleigh and the footprints of his reindeer in the snow near a village some miles north of Nome. The Times hopes to hear from him direct by tomorrow.

BUSINESS AND GOVERNMENT

Never perhaps have the relative and interlocking interests of government and business been more concretely and concisely defined by one speaking with authority than in the address delivered by the President on Thursday at the annual banquet of the New York Chamber of Commerce. "It is notorious," said the President, "that where the government is bad business is bad."

That is in itself justification for business taking a lively interest in government. And it is equally notorious that when business conditions are demoralized, when production and distribution have ceased to function efficiently, there is widespread unrest in the country and government itself is insecure. That is the justification for the executive and legislative departments of the government taking a lively interest in business.

Business cannot exist without government; and government cannot exist without business. They are indissolubly united. Divorce is impossible. They must stand or fall together.

And the President explained that he used the term business in its broadest, comprehensive meaning. "When I have used the word in its all-inclusive sense to denote alike employer and employee, the production of agriculture and industry, the distribution of transportation and commerce and the service of finance and banking. It is the work of the world." That definition, "Business is the work of the world," is worth remembering; it is an aid to clear thinking.

Following his traditional practice, the President did not hesitate to admonish those whom he addressed concerning their shortcomings. For the President is not a diplomat of the Tully school. He does not use words to conceal his thoughts, but to express them. He voiced his regret at the lack of understanding of the average business man of the fundamentals and functions of government.

"If a contest could be held," he said, "to determine how much those who are really prominent in government know about business and those who are really prominent in business life know about government it is my firm conviction that the prize would be awarded to those who are in government life."

It is not recorded that this assertion was greeted by an outburst of applause; but it contains an admonition that those who perform the work of the world, in New York and the rest of the country, will do well to ponder over. Those who perform the work of the world, and those who are prominent in the political government of the world do well to consider the President's admonition. "Those who have the greater authority ought to have the greater knowledge."

The President would have those really prominent in the business world learn more about government not for the purpose of interfering or intermeddling, but to know when not to interfere and intermeddle. And he would have those entrusted with the affairs of government learn more about business in order that they may not, through undue restrictions and unfair competition, kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

"Regulation," he said, "has too often been restriction and inspection has too frequently been little less than obstruction."

But the President accentuated the necessity for a certain degree of governmental regulation. "Proper regulation and control are disagreeable and expensive," he commented. "The representative of the business world must endure because of the unjust. They are a part of the price which must be paid to promote the cause of economic justice."

Commenting on the general prosperity of the country, the President called attention to a condition that verges on the marvelous. In 1929 wages were about 100 per cent above the prewar level and the whole sale price of commodities about 120 per cent. The latest available statistics, furnished by the Department of Commerce, show that wages have increased until they are now 120 per cent above the prewar level, while the wholesale price of commodities has decreased until it is now 50 per cent above the prewar level. He then commented:

Thus, as a result of greater economy and efficiency and the elimination of waste in the conduct of the national government and the business of the country, prices went down while wages went up. The wage-earner receives more, while the dollar of the consumer will purchase more. The efficiency and importance of this result cannot be overestimated.

Calling attention to the fact that he was speaking "not only in the greatest American metropolis, but in the greatest center of population and business in the world," the President reminded his New York audience that they must not forget how much of this prosperity they owe to a strong, stable and efficient government, extending over more than a century. "The mere fundamental precepts of the administration of justice," he said, "the providing of order and security are priceless. The prime element in the value of all property is the knowledge that peaceful enjoyment will be publicly defended."

The President used this instance to stress the necessity of the development of business within, not without, the law. Then he urged that this should be extended by America's adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice. The work of the world proceeds undisturbed inside the United States because it is regulated by the written law. If we are to extend the scope of our commerce and industry outside the United States it can be done profitably only under the protection of the law of nations; and international law without an international court must remain a dead letter.

On this theme the President said: "This is the land of George Washington. He did not hesitate to meet peril or economic danger or to make sacrifices. We must meet our perils; we must encounter our dangers; we must make our sacrifices or history will count that the works of Washington have failed."

The Times believes that this expression of a truly sublime faith and courage on the part of the President will meet with corresponding faith and courage throughout the country. It is fitting to recall the inspired words of George Macdonald, "All things seem rushing straight into the dark—but the dark still is God."
